How long can I make my thesis statement?

Below is an example of an introduction and thesis statement for an eleven page (single spaced) document. Notice how long it is. Notice how the author has classified the paper around the three items in the list (1-3), which go on to correspond to several page long sections. The thesis statement, while being quite long, is grammatically accurate, and promises in no uncertain terms an overview of what the reader would expect to find in the pages that follow.